When Carl was a blue eyed young man, with a shock of black wavy hair, a 22 inch bicep and a guitar strap slung around his neck, he and his band sang on Chicago radio. He loved Eddie Arnold and dreamed the country dream but his dream was given to a blue eyed country girl and their home was filled with music, friends and family. He was an uncomplicated man...a man of character, measured by how he lived his life. His work was hard and physical but at family gatherings he was found knee deep in kids. His heart was big and his love was true. Children gravitated to his goodness. His home was always open to the hungry, broken and lonely. Many were brushed by his kindness...he will be missed.
