“Heaven got them a good livestock man. My family and I learned much from his wisdom of the industry. One of my favorite memories was him always coming to our farm the day before we'd move our pigs into the fair to give his input on them and help keep the peace. Braddock was truly one of my favorite people to be around. What a good time he was! There wasn't a joke he didn't know. I loved to sit and listen to his stories. I always appreciated and respected his opinion, because I knew it was good. He will so dearly be missed.
