“ Our hearts go out to all the loved ones of Mrs. C! She was not only our music teacher, but our dear friend as well. We had many visits through the years after we both graduated. She and her husband were instrumental for us in choosing our career paths.

Rest In Peace Cindy and know that you will always be in our hearts and loved for eternity!

“ Rodney and I offer our sincerest condolences to Cindy's family. We had the joy of moving in 1999 to the house behind theirs. What good times we had with Chad and Cindy visiting on their back porch and our front porch. Over the years Cindy has become such a treasure to us. We will miss her greatly. Due to Covid 19 precautions, we could not attend the service but send our love.

“ I owe a lot to Richard and Cindy both. They were the kind of teachers that everyone hopes they get a least once in their life. I was lucky enough to have both of them in my life at a time the made a major difference. Their spirit and positive attitude made me actually want to come to school. Most teachers were constantly telling you want was wrong with you. They both helped bring out what was unique and special. For those who say that arts and music are a waste of money in the school systems. They should look at the careers of both Cindy and Richard and see what a difference they made in so many people's lives. The time I spent with them in that music room and on the stage were some of the best memories I have.

I love you both Cindy and Richard.

“ Mrs. C was an exceptional teacher who was beloved by her students. When I was in the first grade, I kissed her hand based on a "triple dog dare" from my friends. We all had a crush on her; she was beautiful. I also had the pleasure of taking a music class with her during my senior year (1976) where she was able to instill in me a lifelong serious love of music. Our senior production was Fiddler on the Roof, and she and Chad really inspired the whole WHS family to get involved in the extraordinary production. I would never be able to express my debt of gratitude, but L'chayim seems to come to mind. My deepest sympathies to her family and friends. May celebrating her life that was dedicated to enriching the community with musical beauty be a comfort to us all.

“ Mrs Chadwick was my choir teacher in junior high. She encouraged me to sing in competition in those days. It was something I would have never done on my own, but I was glad I did. She was a great person.
